

Results Reporter

Out of 15 questions, you answered 15 correctly with a final grade of 100%

15 correct
(100%)

0 incorrect
(0%)

0 unanswered (0%)

Your Results:

The correct answer for each question is indicated by a ✓.

1
CORRECT

What are transition words?

- special words help show the relationships between ideas within sentences
- A) within paragraphs
- B) special words that signal what is ahead
- C) special words that allow the author to carry you from one place in your reading "across" to another
- D) All of the above.

Feedback:

Transition words* are special words help show the relationships between ideas within sentences within paragraphs. Good readers learn to utilize the author's transition words, which signal what is ahead. In Latin, the prefix trans means "across." Transition words allow the author to carry you from one place in your reading "across" to another.

2
CORRECT

These are examples of words that can be used to show_____.

- A) classification or division (categories).

- B) cause-and-effect relationships.
- C) comparison.
- D) contrast.

Feedback:

Words that can be used to show classification or division (categories):

break down	combine	lump
categorize	divide	split
class and subclass	group	type classify	kind

3
CORRECT

These are examples of transition words that can be used to show _____.

- A) classification or division (categories).
- B) cause-and-effect relationships.
- C) comparison.
- D) contrast.

Feedback:

Words that can be used to show contrast:

although	in contrast	on the other hand
but	in opposition	rather than despite	instead	though even so	nevertheless	unlike
however	on the contrary	yet

4
CORRECT

These are examples of transition words that can be used to show_____.

- A)classification or division (categories).
- B)cause-and-effect relationships.
- C)comparison.
- D)contrast.

Feedback:

Words that can be used to show comparison:

all	both	like
and	in comparison	likewise
as	just as	similarly

5
CORRECT

These are examples of transition words that can be used to show_____.

- A)classification or division (categories).
- B)cause-and-effect relationships.
- C)comparison.
- D)contrast.

Feedback:

Words that can be used to show cause-and-effect relationships:

as a consequence	due to	resulting
as a result	for	since
because	for this reason	so
begin	hence	then bring about	lead to	therefore consequently	reaction	thus

6
CORRECT

These are examples of transition words that can be used to show _____.

- A) steps in a process.
- B) examples.
- C) definitions.
- D) chronological order.

Feedback:

Words that can be used to define:

is defined as	is called	refers to
is described by	means	term or concept originates from	derives from 7

CORRECT

These are examples of transition words that can be used to show _____.

- A) steps in a process.
- B) examples.
- C) definitions.

C)

D)chronological order.

Feedback:

Words that can be used to show examples:

for example

specifically to illustrate for instance such as in particular to demonstrate

8

CORRECT

These are examples of transition words that can be used to show _____.

A)steps in a process.

B)examples.

C)definitions.

✓ D)chronological order.

Feedback:

Words that can be used to show chronological order:

after first, second, third next at last finally seasons before following soon currently in a year, month, day

then during

in the meantime until 9

CORRECT

These are examples of transition words that can be used to show

✓ A) steps in a process.

- B)examples.
- C)definitions.
- D)chronological order.

Feedback:

10
CORRECT

The pattern of organization called _____ is the process of organizing information into categories.

- A)classification and division
- B)cause and effect
- C)comparison and contrast
- D)steps in a process

Feedback:

Writers organize their supporting sentences and ideas in ways called patterns of organization. The most common kinds of patterns of organization are: classification and division, cause and effect, comparison and contrast, steps in a process, examples, definition and chronological order. Classification is the process of organizing information into categories. A category is created by noticing and defining group characteristics. The categories we create make it easier to analyze, discuss, and draw conclusions.

11
CORRECT

When using the pattern of organization called _____, the author explains or describes something in a step-by-step manner.

- A)classification and division
- B)cause and effect
- C)comparison and contrast
- D)steps in a process

Feedback:

Writers organize their supporting sentences and ideas in ways called patterns of organization. The most common kinds of patterns of organization are: classification and division, cause and effect, comparison and contrast, steps in a process, examples, definition and chronological order. In the steps in a process pattern, something is explained or described in a step-by-step manner. The sequences are clearly identified by specific transition words.

12
CORRECT

A paragraph of _____ will define, clarify, or explain a key term.

- A)examples
- B)definition
- C)chronological order
- D)listing pattern

Feedback: A paragraph of definition will define, clarify, or explain a key term. Definitions can be developed by providing dictionary meanings or personal meanings. They can also be developed by means of examples or by comparing and contrasting the key word to other words.

13
CORRECT

This pattern of organization involves arranging events in time in the order that they actually happened:

- examples

A)

B)definition

✓ C)chronological order

D)listing pattern

Feedback: The word chronological comes from the Greek root chron, which means "time." This pattern of organization involves arranging events in time in the order that they actually happened.

14
CORRECT

When an author simply lists information without regard to order, the pattern of organization is referred to as _____.

A)examples.

B)definition.

C)chronological order.

✓ D)listing pattern.

Feedback: When an author simply lists information without regard to order, the pattern of organization is referred to as simple listing or enumeration. Sometimes authors use numbers (1,2,3), letters (a, b, c) or asterisks (*) to show the individual items on the list.

15
CORRECT

A paragraph of _____ usually gives a general statement of the main idea and then presents one or more concrete examples to provide support for his idea.

✓ A)examples

B)definition

C)chronological order

D)listing pattern

Feedback: A paragraph of examples usually gives a general statement of the main idea and then presents one or more concrete examples to provide support for this idea. Many writers place the most important or convincing example either first, as an attention-getter, or last, as a dramatic climax. While the terms example and illustration are used interchangeably, an illustration is usually longer, and there may only be one in the paragraph.